GENERAL NEWS.

THE POLITICAL POT BEGINNING TO BOIL.

Wisconsin and Minnesota hold State Conventions—Secretary MacVeagh Anxious to Resign and Blaine Anxious to Remain.

The Deadwood Postmaster Removed for Complicity in Star Route Frauds—A New Railroad to Denver—Murderers Lynched, etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

St. Paul, Sept. 29.—The republican state convention met and organized and committees reported without delay. Resolutions hold that the executive of the nation should not be controlled by senatorial dictation and the executive should not interfere with senators' action in his appointments; that in Chester A. Arthur, upon whom has fallen the mantle of an illustrious man, we hope to find a successor who will in no wise disappoint the great expectation of the republican party or our country, chosen by the nation as the associate of Garfield on the presidential ticket, and selected by the people to be his successor in any emergency which might render such a succession necessary, the republicans of Minnesota, with due appreciation of the peculiar embarrassment surrounding his assumption of the office, in full expectation of his faithfulness to the party, and his devotion to the best interests of the country, pledge him their cordial consideration and earnest support. A resolution complimentary to [illegible] and Gov. Pillsbury was also passed.

The following ticket was nominated: Governor, L. F. Hubbard of Red Wing; Lt.-Gov., Charles A. Gilman of St. Cloud; secretary of state, Fred. Von Baumbach of Alexandria; treasurer, Charles Scheffer of [illegible]; attorney general, W. J. Hahn of Lake [illegible]; railroad commissioner, Gen. J. G. Baker of Mankato; supreme court judges, Charles Vanderburg of Minneapolis, Wm. Mitchell of Winona and D. A. Dickinson of Mankato.

Wisconsin State Democratic Convention.

Madison, Sept. 28.—The democratic state convention adopted a long platform, urging the people to ignore partisan dictation in the coming state campaign and try to elect honest, able officers, not controlled by ring or combination. It deplores the cruel and causeless assassination of the late president as an unparalleled and atrocious crime and a disgrace to humanity and expresses confidence in Arthur. The following were nominated: Governor, [illegible]; lieutenant governor, W. W. Anderson; secretary of state, Michael Johnson; treasurer, W. [illegible]; attorney general, M. J. Briggs; superintendent of public instruction, Robt. Graham; railroad commissioner, Ambrose Hoffman; insurance commissioner, Rudolph Kemper. Mr Graham, candidate for superintendent of public instruction is also the nominee of the republican party.

And the Good Work Goes On.

New York, Sept. 29.—Second assembly district of St. Lawrence county and Allegheny county elect [illegible].

Robertson will Probably Resign.

[illegible] It is reported from excellent sources of information that Robertson will soon resign the collectorship. He has himself furnished conclusive evidence of his intention to withdraw by consenting to go as a delegate to the republican state convention. With his views of civil service reform he would not become a delegate to the nominating convention unless he intended to retire from the collectorship of the port.

Will Act for Harmony.

[illegible], Sept. 29.—The republicans of the Second district elected four delegates classed as stalwarts, [illegible] as anti-stalwart, but all claim they will act [illegible] harmony.

Another Split Convention.

[illegible], Sept. 29.—The republican convention [illegible] two conventions. At the same time two [illegible] were elected.

Pennsylvania Democratic Convention.

[illegible], Pa., Sept. 28.—The democratic state convention was called to order at noon by [illegible] of the state central committee.

The Iowa Elections.

[illegible], Sept. 28.—Result of the republican [illegible] held throughout Iowa, all but [illegible] have been held, leaves no doubt that [illegible] will be first choice for United [illegible] by a very large majority of the next [illegible].

[illegible] Hesaill was made permanent [illegible]. The only notable resolutions were one [illegible] term, one against repudiation, [illegible] the republicans for refusing to re[illegible] interest on the national debt; one [illegible] of the star route swindlers, [illegible] the government handling the telegraph [illegible] service, and regulating railroad [illegible].

[illegible] the Christian Churches [illegible] Garfield.

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—There is said to exist in [illegible] and elsewhere among members of [illegible] considerable feeling, directed [illegible] Dr. Bliss in regard to the prohibition [illegible] by the surgeons on the visit of Christian [illegible] to the sick room of the late president. [illegible] days, now that the grave has closed [illegible] of the late president, one fact [illegible] which cannot fail to excite pain [illegible], especially in view of [illegible] evinced on his Christian character [illegible] long and trying illness, which his [illegible] have recently declared was inflicted [illegible]. There is no record that he [illegible] by a minister of the gospel; that [illegible] was performed at his bedside, [illegible] were soothed by religious consolation [illegible]. No man is pure enough in [illegible] to need preparation for eternity, [illegible] is every true Christian [illegible] time of repentance before [illegible]. Whoever may be responsible [illegible] omission must look back to a [illegible] with sad feelings. It was proper [illegible] point of view, though, opinions differ [illegible] in the profession, to isolate [illegible], but above cabinet, above [illegible], the door should have [illegible] minister of Christ, who [illegible] of faith and hope of [illegible] closed we do not know, [illegible] the moral sensibilities of a [illegible].

[illegible] A window of rich stained [illegible] St. John's Episcopal church [illegible]. It will be appropriate [illegible] Garfield the Sunday before [illegible].

[illegible] Lynched.

[illegible]—A special to the Republican [illegible] two roughs, called the [illegible] brutally murdered two [illegible] near Menominee, Mich., a [illegible] from jail and lynched last [illegible].

[illegible] Road for Denver.

[illegible]—The annual meeting of the [illegible] Chicago, Burlington & Quincy [illegible] in this city to-day. The chief [illegible] the decision is a proposition for [illegible] the road to Denver, Colorado. The [illegible] adopted.

[illegible] Gen. Sherman in Trouble.

[illegible]—A Las Cruces (Sept. 23) special [illegible] U. S. marshal for New Mexico [illegible] Judge Chas. Sherman, of Cleveland [illegible] "Honest John," was indicted [illegible] jury for this district yesterday [illegible] government money. He passed [illegible] county jail, not having been able to [illegible] for $10,000 until morning.

Dr. Boynton Interviewed.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Since the death of President [illegible] complicated statements relative [illegible] have been in circulation, and as Dr. [illegible] brought quite prominently before [illegible] this connection, he has been called on [illegible] interview obtained from him:

[illegible] it true, as was stated in the New York [illegible] at Elberon, Drs. Agnew and Hamilton [illegible] with you for giving publicity to [illegible] accord with their own regarding the [illegible]?"

[illegible] a word of truth in the statement." [illegible] relations with the attending surgeons [illegible] otherwise?"

[illegible] relations were cordial."

[illegible] respect did your opinions differ from [illegible]?"

[illegible] nearly all the serious symptoms [illegible] arising in the president's case, [illegible] August 1st, were due to blood poisoning, [illegible] the serious lung trouble, due to blood [illegible] developed before his removal from Washington. [illegible] I understand that the presence of blood [illegible] was not admitted by the attending surgeons [illegible] a few days prior to the president's [illegible]. The presence of any serious lung complication [illegible] denied. The cough was attributed by [illegible] to simple bronchial catarrh."

"[illegible] witness the autopsy?"

"[illegible] did."

"[illegible] light of the autopsy, did you still consider [illegible] the lung trouble was due to pyæmia and was of the [illegible] of metastatic abscesses?"

"[illegible] do. When the lung tissue was divided, pus [illegible] out in abundance, mainly from minute [illegible] bronchial tubes; and that peculiar congestion of the [illegible] of the lungs, which constitutes the first [illegible] in metastatic abscess, exhibited in a marked [illegible] this condition of the lungs, at it constitutes [illegible] of the most common complications in pyæmia, [illegible] essentially different in its nature from an ordinary [illegible] case of bronchial pneumonia."

"[illegible] there any pus cavities in the lungs?"

"[illegible], there were not. In many cases of metastatic [illegible] abscess of the lungs no pus cavities are formed; [illegible] the president's case there were no symptoms [illegible] during his life indicating the presence of these pus cavities."

"It has been reported that you were to make a full [illegible] statement of the autopsy as you viewed it. Will you [illegible] it now?"

"I am not authority for such report."

"[illegible] you state, as reported in a Chicago paper, [illegible] that the ball was accidentally found loose, and rattling [illegible] in the bottom of the bowl in which the [illegible] had been placed?"

"No, sir, I made no such statement. I may have [illegible] in private conversation, not expecting it to be [illegible] public, that when the contents of the abdominal [illegible] cavity were removed and placed in the washbowl [illegible] the ball was conveyed with them into the bowl, [illegible] it was afterward discovered after a failure to [illegible] it in the region of the pus cavity, which [illegible] had been mistaken for the track of the ball."

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Rush for Offices Commenced.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Numerous democratic [illegible] for secretary of the senate have appeared, [illegible] being John G. Thompson, now sergeant-at-arms [illegible] of that house. The republicans appear [illegible] Gorham and Riddleberger will be voted [illegible] for [illegible] soundness. Were the republicans [illegible], probably they would have to be [illegible] several Garfield senators would decline [illegible] to vote for Gorham, and others would bolt Riddleberger.

The Plot to Kill Guiteau a Canard.

The story published yesterday that Sergeant Mason's attempt to shoot Guiteau was the result of a plot of soldiers of the 2d artillery which furnished the guard at the jail, is generally denied by both men and officers. They regard Mason as a good soldier whose mind was unsettled by malarial fever, combined with the prevailing excitement. It is believed his trial will result in his acquittal on the ground of emergency insanity, and his discharge from the army. The court martial does not meet until the 25th of October.

Preparing for Guiteau's Trial.

The district attorney to-day took the last steps in the preliminary arrangements for securing the indictment of Guiteau next week by issuing subpœnas to the following witnesses for the government: Edward A. Bailey, stenographer, who has a large mass of notes of conversation with Guiteau, willing in all, covering his history from early boyhood, reasons for committing the act, etc.; Geo. W. Adams, president of the Evening Star publishing company, who was in the depot en route to Cape May when the shooting occurred; Geo. W. McElfresh, detective; Dr. D. W. Bliss and Dr. D. H. Lamb, who were present at the autopsy; Jacob P. Smith, special officer at the Baltimore & Potomac depot, who witnessed the shooting and assisted in arresting Guiteau; Sarah E. D. White, in charge of the ladies' waiting room at the depot, who witnessed the shooting and helped raise the president; Robert A. Park, ticket seller, who jumped through the window of his office and assisted in raising the president; policeman Patrick Kearney, who spoke to the president just before the shooting, telling him he had 10 minutes to wait for the train, and also assisted in Guiteau's arrest. The district attorney will ask Senor Don Simon Comacho, charge d'affaires of Venezuela, who was in the depot and witnessed the shooting, to testify. The above named witnesses are directed to be in attendance at the reassembling of the grand jury at the criminal court room on Monday next, when the case will be presented to the grand jury. No answer has yet been received by the district attorney from Geo. M. Scoville, Guiteau's brother-in-law, who was requested by the prisoner to appear as his counsel. Guiteau says he is not afraid of the law, for that will protect him and prevent his being hung. He is reported as feeling somewhat disappointed at not receiving a prompt reply from Scoville.

The Postmaster at Deadwood Removed.

President Arthur to-day directed the removal of S. P. Star, postmaster at Deadwood, Dakota, for confessed complicity with a star route contractor in defrauding the postoffice department.

Assistant Counsel in Star Route Cases.

Ben W. Brewster of Philadelphia has arrived in Washington to assist ex-District Attorney Bliss of New York and District Attorney Corkhill in the preparation and prosecution of star route cases, when indictments are secured. Bliss thinks ample evidence is secured to present to the grand jury to entitle the government to indictments, and intends to push matters promptly as possible. The counsel are confident they will have Arthur's support in every proper effort to convict and to punish the guilty men.

Anxious to get away from Public Life.

MacVeagh is the first member of the cabinet to announce his determination to have his formal resignation of last week regarded as final. In talking about his retirement this morning to the Times correspondent, Mr. MacVeagh said he regarded Arthur's right to select a cabinet of his own as unquestioned, and he for one did not propose to embarrass the president by his presence. MacVeagh accepted a position in Garfield's cabinet with only one motive, of devoting himself to a reform in civil service. The fact is, he is tired of public life. He has been so occupied with work since he became attorney general that his health has suffered. He is anxious to get back to the practice of law. None of the other cabinet officers so far as heard are of MacVeagh's way of thinking.

Sick Senators.

Senator Platt of Connecticut, who has paired with Fair of Nevada, is suffering with cancer in the breast. He is not likely to ever take his seat again. Senator Hill is now in the hospital at Philadelphia, and writes that he will be here to vote on the organization of the senate. He has lost about a quarter of his tongue and has been subjected to a surgical operation on his throat and parotid gland, which will interfere with his speaking. His general health is good.

Will be Held Responsible.

If a democrat should be elected president of the senate because of the resignation of Conkling and Platt those senators would be held accountable for any disaster that might befall the country or their party.

A Story about Blaine.

According to good authority Secretary Blaine is using all the influence that he can bring to bear upon President Arthur to retain his place in the cabinet. An administration official said to-day it will doubtless appear impossible for the general public to believe that Blaine would allow himself to be placed in so humiliating a position, but such nevertheless is a fact. "It has been said that Mr. Blaine thought it a stronger policy to retire for a time to private life," asked the correspondent. "Yes, it has been so said," was the reply, "but the assurance has come from Mr. Blaine's friends that he has never committed himself in that regard. Why, from the time Garfield was shot Blaine has done everything in his power to make alliances with Arthur and his friends, while up to the day of assassination Blaine was the only member of the administration who was out and out opposed to every friend Arthur had in New York. Now that Garfield is dead it is revealing what is perhaps no secret to politicians who say that Blaine alone was responsible for Robertson's nomination and war upon Conkling. The strangest thing to understand is Blaine's confidence that he will not be recognized in the matter, and that he can in a moment become the principal adviser and confidant of a man whom he has bitterly opposed. Suppose Blaine should be retained and upon some fine occasion he should walk in upon the president and find him closeted with General Grant and Roscoe Conkling? Here are two of the most intimate friends of the president, and yet his secretary of state is not on speaking terms with them. His presence in the cabinet would lead to constant embarrassment. When the president died we were treated to a few such incidents, but I will illustrate what I mean. Grant would not speak to Blaine or recognize him, no matter on what occasion. You will remember that at Elberon Blaine was always with Arthur, unless Grant came around, when he had to wait. When Arthur returned to New York after his first visit to Long Branch, a carriage was brought around for him. Blaine was going to ride down with Arthur, but Grant got into the carriage, and then Blaine was obliged to excuse himself. I would never have believed Blaine would try to make a place with this administration, but the proofs of his intriguing in that direction are overwhelming. Why, at Cleveland, after the funeral, he said he was going directly to Augusta, but instead he quietly dropped down to New York, only because he had learned somewhere that Arthur was due there then.

MacVeagh Insists upon Resigning.

MacVeagh insists upon retiring as soon as his successor is ready. He spent two hours with the president this morning. In reply to a question if the star route prosecutions would be delayed by his retirement he said he had never attended to the details of the case. They had been in good hands and would continue in the same till the trials were concluded in the interest of justice, which would be attained as well under any successor appointed by the president as under him. He is entirely satisfied with the present condition of the star route cases and does not doubt indictments will be found. The president will be ready to fill his place when the called session of the senate meets 11, not before.

Other Cabinet Items.

Secretary Hunt will leave to-morrow for his oft-deferred tour of inspection of northern navy yards. He will begin with Brooklyn and then take the Talapoosa for Newport, Charlestown and Portsmouth. He will be gone two weeks. He is understood to be quite willing to remain in the cabinet. Secretary Lincoln declines to discuss cabinet prospects. He will visit Rye Beach with his family for a few days, leaving here Saturday.

New Jersey will take no Action.

Col. Corkhill, U. S. District attorney, received this morning from Attorney General Stockton, of New Jersey, a communication in which he states that no action will be taken in Guiteau's case by the authorities of that state.

New Pass through the Bitter Root Mountains Discovered.

Lewiston, I. T., Sept. 28.—The Beall surveying party, seeking a railroad pass through the Bitter Root range south of the Lolo have returned. The report of Alph Beall, chief of the party, shows the following: They discovered three low passes of the range south of the Lolo. The maximum elevation above sea level of the highest is 5112 feet; that of the lowest 4419 feet. The latter is the Skakaho or Beall pass. This was located in behalf of the Idaho, Clearwater and Montana Co. Beall reports the maximum grade per mile on the approach to this pass from the west to be less than 50 feet, and from the east to be less than 58 feet. The line of the survey from Lewiston to the summit is as follows: From Lewiston up the main Clearwater river to south fork; thence up south fork to middle fork; thence up middle fork to Selway fork; the ice up Selway fork to Elk prairie; thence up a north fork of the Selway to Loyal creek; thence up Loyal creek to summit, an entire distance of 1?9 miles. The ascending grade of the first 130 miles along the stream averages 12 feet per mile. The next 45 miles averages 23 feet per mile. On the last 24 miles the grade is 48 feet per mile. The descent to St. Mary's river in Bitter Root valley, 60 miles above Missoula, is made in the short distance of 22 miles, with an average grade per mile of less than 65 feet. No bad canyons and no danger from snow slides along the whole route. The point where the line touches the St. Mary's river is 80 miles from Silver Bow on the Utah & Northern.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The Great Fire in Moscow still Raging—Destructive Earthquake in Southern Italy.

BOYCOTTING INCREASING IN IRELAND.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Sept. 29.—During the president's illness, cable dispatches were sent daily to J. W. Mackey by George [illegible] lander of the Nevada bank. On Saturday Brander received from Mackey the following dispatch, dated Berlin: "Just arrived from Moscow. Learn with deep regret of the president's death. Please enclose five thousand dollars for my subscription." A check for that amount was at once sent to the Garfield fund.

The Moscow Fire still Raging.

Moscow, Sept. 28.—The fire which commenced last evening in the Merchants' Bazaar in this city, has already destroyed twenty warehouses in spite of all efforts, and the conflagration is still raging.

More Boycotting.

London, Sept. 29.—Another case of what is feared as a fatal attack upon process servers occurred at Ballybannon, County Kerry. Similar attacks on evicting parties of police are continually reported. Boycotting, according to letters published in Paris, has increased.

Bishops in Council.

Dublin, Sept. 29.—The Catholic bishops of Ireland, in session at Maynooth College, adopted a resolution that the land act is a great benefit to tenants, for which gratitude is generally due to the government and all who helped carry the measure. The bishops summon the clergy to guard their flocks against all secret agents of violence and intimidation.

Dying Cardinals.

Rome, Sept. 29.—Cardinal Edward Bouroni is reported dying and Cardinal Vincent Moretti is also seriously ill.

A Destructive Earthquake.

Rome, Sept. 28.—The destruction caused by an earthquake in Abruzzi far exceeds anything indicated by first report. The archbishop of Chieti appeals piteously for help. He says the disaster is only comparable to that of Casamicciola. Over 1000 houses are uninhabitable and the rest more or less fissured. Four-fifths of the population are shelterless.

A Paper on Pottery.

Madrid, Sept. 28.—At the congress of the American society Professor Barber of Philadelphia read a paper on the ancient pottery of cities and rural population of North America and cinerary urns of Central and South America.

A Failure of Little Importance.

London, Sept. 28.—Little importance is attached to the failure of the Bank of Luxemburg, which was fully anticipated. Some influential firms in London cleared their transactions with the bank a year ago. The total liabilities are estimated at £300,000. Liquidation will probably be unfavorable.

Released from Custody.

Trouble With Tonquin.

Paris, Sept. 28.—There is an impression that France desires to force a treaty on the King of Tonquin and there will be a repetition of the Tunis affair there. Such a course would very likely involve a rupture with China.

A Poorly Ventilated Jail.

Dublin, Sept. 28.—Father Sheehy, in replying to the questions of reporters, complained of the sanitary conditions of Kilmainham jail, which he declared was conducive to blood poisoning and said the food was unfit for human use. He strongly condemned the land act.

Conflicting Statements.

London, Sept. 28.—The representatives of Russia, Germany and Austria, at Berne, have addressed a note to the Swiss government asking them to forbid the holding of the universal congress of socialists at Berne. Meanwhile as a counter stroke the socialists seem to have circulated the report that the congress will not take place.

The Wheat Crop in France.

Paris, Sept. 29.—The Bulletin Des Halles estimates the wheat crop of France, at 247,123,000 bushels, if it does not exceed this amount. Larger imports than last year will be required to supply the wants of the country.

ARIZONA.

A Festive Cowboy.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.

A dispatch from Tucson says: A special from Deming says, this evening two Texas cowboys, who had got drunk, mounted their horses and rode through the depot, scattering passengers in all directions. One of them struck a leading merchant with his six-shooter, and then captured the dining room at the depot, but was killed by the deputy sheriff while resisting arrest.

Notes from Apache Land.

A special from San Carlos says: Capt. Bernard of the 1st cavalry has been appointed provost marshal of the prisoners. Major Sanford's command here and Capt. Stacey's company of the 12th infantry are included. Christianizing the Indians seems to be yet far off. Yesterday a son of Loco, formerly a war chief of Victorio, died, and he applied to-day for permission to kill a squaw charged with bewitching him. The permission was denied. The surrendered hostiles of Sanchez and others, and other bands, number 60 bucks, 73 squaws and 76 children. Judge Advocate General Egbert is here to ascertain whether the renegades can be tried by a military commission. An officer of Co. [illegible] Carr's command reports that when they returned to Cibicu they found the Indians had exhumed the body of Capt. Hentig and soldiers killed there. The dead men had been buried in a canvas tent which the Indians had carried off, leaving certain articles which they did not want. Capt. Hentig's head was mashed with large stones, and badly mutilated. One hand and foot were gone. The command buried the remains and tried a salute over them. One tent has been found occupied by Indians. It is believed that the real murderer of Capt. Hentig has been discovered, and he will be arrested.

Indian Census.

According to the U. S. census of White Mountain tribes just finished, there are 302 bucks and 1174 women and children; acres of land worked, 447; medicine men, 7; farmers, 108; Indian police, 3; in U. S. military service, 45.

PARAGRAPHIC DETAIL.

In the two operations for cancer recently performed, Senator Ben Hill has lost about one half of his tongue.

A Kentucky girl was struck by lightning and killed while crossing for her wedding, and the hard-hearted Cincinnati Enquirer says there is such a thing as a girl being too attractive.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Ananias remarked, just after he had told his final lie, that he didn't mind going, as in a few years there would be newspapers in Cincinnati to carry out his schemes.

All the food eaten by the czar of Russia is sampled by an attendant of the palace before being placed on the table. Fortunately, for the gentleman occupying this position, Mrs. Romanoff never attempts to make pies.

Cardinal Newman, when just out of college, was offered $9000 a year salary to assume an editorial position in the London Times, and refused. College graduates do not come quite so high just now. Job lots can be secured by newspapers at $7 per week each.

It is said that among the reforms contemplated in Russia is a cutting down in the pension list. This is very large, and in some instances three salaries are actually paid for one office. For instance, a man holds a place a number of years and retires on a pension; another succeeds him and likewise retires on a pension; a third gets the position and performs its duties for the regular salary. In this way the post is a triple expense.

The impression is general that Washington was the first and only commander-in-chief of the American army during the revolution. Such is not the fact. Gen. Artemus Ward, of Massachusetts, commanded the army until the appointment of Gen. Washington in June, 1775. Gen. Sherman, by request, delivered an address at the grave of Gen. Ward in the cemetery at Shrewsbury, Mass., not long ago. Gen. Ward died in October, 1800.

Immigration.

The chief of the bureau of statistics reports that during the month of August, 1881, there arrived in the customs districts of Baltimore, Boston, Detroit, Huron, Minnesota, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia and San Francisco 65,878 passengers, of whom 56,744 were immigrants. The total number of immigrants arrived in the above named customs districts for the month of August, 1881, was as follows:

Countries from which arrived.	1881.	1880.
England	9,118	6,242
Ireland	5,119	6,457
Scotland	1,5?4	1,787
Austria	1,303	1,235
Germany	19,131	11,918
Norway	2,817	1,671
Sweden	3,6?9	3,8?3
Dominion of Canada	5,716	13,595
China	1,745	386
All other countries	5,445	4,697
Total	56,744	50,504

The great falling off in the immigration from Ireland, as compared with that of some years ago, is especially noticeable in these figures. Formerly the Irish immigration comprised about half of the whole.

THE LINN COUNTY FAIR.

SMALL ATTENDANCE, POOR EXHIBIT AND SCRUB RACES.

A Crowd Expected Friday and Saturday Financially Successful but Otherwise a Failure.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

Albany, Sept. 29, 1881.

The fair is a melancholy compromise between flat failure and a moderate success. The attendance including bootblacks, pop sellers, officers of the ground, etc., is less than five hundred; the exhibit excepting the domestic department of the pavilion is beneath criticism; the races are scrub affairs; the horse display is "a side," and the cattle stalls are empty. The whole affair has a dismal and lonesome appearance. In one respect only is the fair a success—it pays. The total receipts up to last night—for licenses, booth-hire, entrance fees and gate receipts—foot up $1955, about $150 more than for the first two days of last year. The receipts are somewhat larger than they would otherwise be from the fact that no day tickets were sold till this morning, each person entering Tuesday and yesterday having to take a season ticket. As the season for entering closed at 11 o'clock to-day, there is no prospect for improvement in that feature of the fair, but a large increase in attendance expected to-morrow and Saturday will brighten its general aspect.

On any farm in Linn county can be found a more interesting collection of general stock than in the here. I enquired this morning of a marshal where the cattle could be found. He grinned and said that if I would go over "yander," pointing to the southeastern corner of the big pasture, I would find them, "and," he added, "you won't have no great job in makin notes on 'em nuther." I went "yander" and found a cow and her calf in one stall and a yearling heifer in another—only these three. The cow was a good looking brute, and a card on her stall said that she was of the Holstein breed and three years old—not a word to indicate by whom she was exhibited, and no one within three hundred yards of whom I could get any information regarding her.

I next visited the stables. There is but one thoroughbred running horse on the ground, a youngster called Terrence, imported two or three years ago by Isaacs of Walla Walla. I enquired of the owner of Terrence if he had any record. "Record? Yes," he answered, "his record's best three out of five!" I was quite satisfied and inquired no further. In another stall I found "Little Fred" tied by his bridle ready at a moment's notice for the Derby, or to go for the cows. "What stock is your horse?" I asked of his keeper. "Is he a thoroughbred horse?" "Well," he replied, "I should say he is a mighty thoroughbred horse. I don't know jest what stock he is, but he's a daisy and a mighty good goer for a quarter of a mile, you bet." These two are the only speed nags here. There are half a dozen good looking colts of Autocrat and other good stock, but not a trotter of reputation or training in the lot. There are several draft horses and some colts of heavy stock on exhibition for premiums, but the tickets do not indicate to whom they belong, and when I visited the stables there was nobody about to give information. I think I could have stolen the entire stud without anybody finding it out till feeding time to-night. I almost forgot to mention the races. Little Fred won the single dash yesterday, distancing two competitors; time—don't hold your breath—2 minutes and 2 seconds.

The exhibit of sheep is very good. There are several pens of fine wool sheep well worth the attention of people interested in wool growing, all owned by D. M. Guthrie of Polk county and Carl Burkhart. There are also several pens of fine hogs. I found my friend the marshal, and asked who owned the pigs. "Wall," he said, "I'll be dogged if I know." Nothing is ticketed with the name of the exhibitor. Several coops of chickens and ducks complete the display of "live stock." The is composed of just such an array of general utility machines as one could find on a small farm. The Champion fruit dryer made in Albany, a good machine, is on exhibition by Dorrety & Quinn; a rocking churn, invented and manufactured in Albany, by Nobody knew who, was also exhibited. It is merely an oblong tin box set upon wire rockers, very easily worked and a good butter maker. Mr. Best of Albany exhibits a cleaner and fanning mill, both made in the county. Mr. Shurtz exhibits a pulverizer. Willard & Bush exhibit two hacks. Bush shows a fanning mill of his own invention and manufacture. Two rustic chairs and a Woods plow complete the catalogue of the "mechanical exhibit." Any of the agricultural implement stores in Albany would be ashamed of so small a stock as composes this "exhibit."

THE PAVILION.

She ves are about half filled. The display of vegetables would be very creditable to a grocery store. John Hughes shows some fine squashes and pumpkins. Jno. Meeker has some fine sugar and feed beets. It would be hard to beat his exhibit in this line. C. P. Burkhart and C. P. Fensoul contribute largely to the vegetable and fruit display. Mrs. Backensto, Mrs. J. Ivanson, Mrs. Wm. Cannon and Mrs. Jas. Fensoul show some beautiful fine samples of bottled fruit. Miss Minnie Monteith has some toothsome looking cakes. Mrs. Sloan shows some beautiful honey and Mrs. Hughes some gilt edged butter. D. M. Guthrie has the finest beautiful samples of wool I ever saw. Mrs. Backensto, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. L. Blaine, Mrs. L. McClung, Mrs. Wm. Smith, Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. Fensoul figure as exhibitors in the fruit department. John Smith, John Luper, John Hughes, C. P. Burkhart, George Archeart and Mr. Price show fine samples of grain. "Old Linn" is hard to beat on grain, and the display of wheat, oats, etc., is really very good.

THE DOMESTIC DEPARTMENT

Occupies the north side of the pavilion and shows that the ladies of Linn county have not been idle during the past year. To enumerate the many articles of ladies' fancy work, useful and ornamental, would be a useless task, and to describe and pass judgment upon many of them—I am not a married man—would be impossible. The shelves are filled with a thousand—I mean a thousand—pretty things which show rare skill and taste. Miss Kirkland, Mrs. Rund, Mrs. McClung, Mrs. Dr. Hanchet and Mrs. Murray exhibit a beautiful spread of bed quilts. Miss Powell has a display of millinery goods which would do credit to Portland. Miss Kirkland displays some pieces of embroidery, a zephyr picture and several rarely beautiful tidies; Mrs. McWain several tidies with tatted edgings in silk, also a fine piece of waxwork and a suit of ladies' underwear. The latter looked to me to be very pretty. Mrs. J. W. Cannon exhibits a handsome embroidered pincushion and an infant's skirt; Mrs. Baum some slide bond mats; Mrs. N. C. Dozier a pair of pillow shams and a lady's skirt; Mrs. Kaliaby a very beautiful piece of raised zephyr work; Mrs. McFarland, several artistically embroidered handkerchiefs—well, to enumerate all I cannot do. Among the prominent exhibitors are Mrs. J. H. Burkhart, Mrs. John Irving, Mrs. Frank Redfield, Miss Annie Powell, Miss Effie Reed, Mrs. Jas. Wilkins, Mrs. Springer, Miss Ella Harris, Mrs. Coff Van Cleave, Miss Minnie Monteith, Mrs. Bentley (over 80 years old), the Misses Hughes, Mrs. Charles Pfeiffer, Miss Mary Wheeler, Mrs. La Gue, Mrs. Henry Flindt, and others whose names I could not learn. Mrs. Peters exhibits several oil pictures—her own work.

One of the most interesting features of the domestic department is a corner devoted to the work of little girls. Here I found two score or more articles, ranging from a plain gingham apron to an elaborately embroidered skirt, all the work of girls under 15, many of them under 10. The names of the little chicks whose pretty fingers made all these pretty things are: Maude Cundiff, Eva Weller, Maggie Harvey, Lizzie Reed, Emma Lewis, Allie Schlosser, Maud Henderson, Fannie West, Medie Thompson and Maggie Sutton.

SOME GENERAL REFLECTIONS.

Agricultural fairs in Oregon have not of late years been successful. It has become the fashion for newspapers in speaking of these annual failures either to suppress the facts, or directly and say the affairs are successful and pleasant, or the truth being admitted, to declare that the people of this county were that should be ashamed of slim exhibits and lack of interest. The Linn county fair has been favored with good weather, it is held in one of the best and richest counties of the state, and yet it is practically a failure. And the farmers of Linn are not to blame, and should not be reproached nor held responsible for that failure. Farmers of the Willamette valley cannot afford to stop their plows in the brief autumn season and spend a week at a fair. The farmer who does it wastes his best planting season and must suffer for it. If the people of Linn should go to work in earnest, to get up an agricultural fair, they could make a display that would astonish the world. But most of them have no time to devote to the matter and don't care to spend a week in expensive social dissipation. It's their own business and nobody has a right to complain or chide them with not "doing their duty." There is another feature of objection to fairs. Their moral influence is bad upon young men and women, particularly young men. Every species of vice is spread out before them in alluring forms. Gambling in a dozen forms—I do not refer to the races, which benefit the stock interests of the country—is licensed and given the best stands on the ground, frauds of every sort are openly permitted and practiced—all for a little money for the society. It would be easy to prevent these very grave abuses. I watched a crowd of green boys this morning, several of them half drunk and most all smoking "stinkers," as they crowded about the "wheel of fortune" and were persuaded to put their money in a robbing game, and didn't wonder that many good people fail and for good reason to "do their duty" to county fairs as they are now conducted. A. H.

The London Truth goes for the Bartlett pair in this complimentary fashion: "A lap-dog, a led captain, a slave to the whims of a conqueror on her gilded car. What a position for a man to whom has been given the sovereignty of life! And what fatal bitterness in the way in which she buys her living whistle, and pays for it to the length in more dearly than the bargain!"

The detectives, after months of labor, arrested a woman named A. Audette, lawyer to-day, while [illegible] is one of the counterfeits. Several other base pieces were found on her. A Monument of Garfield at San Francisco.

At a citizens' meeting to-night to devise means to erect a monument to Garfield's memory in Golden Gate park it was concluded to change the programme and not confine contributions to San Francisco, but have the entire coast aid. The design is to erect a monument without statuary at a cost of $5500.

Increased Assessment.

The board of supervisors to-day in the matter of the increased assessment of taxes by the state board of equalization resolved to take no action. A member of the state board said Auditor Dunn refused to add the assessment to the tax roll, and that to-morrow the state board would ask the supreme court for a mandamus to compel the auditor to add the increase to the tax list.

An Unfortunate Family.

Stockton, Sept. 24.—The family of Isaac Laswell, living near Farmington, are severely afflicted. One child died this morning of diphtheria and five more are down with the disease. The disease in that neighborhood proved fatal in nearly every case.

Overflowing with Brotherly Love.

Petaluma, Sept. 29.—At the M. E. church to-day Dr. B. F. Crary, editor of the California Christian Advocate, was introduced and made fraternal remarks, saying he used to be opposed to as many different Methodist bodies, but was converted now, and was to see not only the two great Methodist bodies in existence, but one for every language. Rev. C. V. Anthony presented Rev. M. D. Buck, a fraternal delegate from the California conference of the M. E. church, and read his fraternal letter. He made fraternally remarks referring to the pleasant relations with this body, and the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That we reciprocate most heartily the fraternal address sent through Rev. C. V. Anthony from Rev. M. D. Buck, delegate from the California conference of the M. E. church, and that the Pacific annual conference of the M. E. Church South requests Bishop Kavanaugh to appoint one of our number to bear fraternal greetings to their next session.

Reports from churches exhibit a general increase in all interests of the church. There is a large attendance of friends of the conference from various parts of the state. The church is filled at all sessions.

Dead Body Found.

Salem, Sept. 29.—The body of Patrick McManus was found in the [illegible] to-day, near the agricultural works, with his neck broken and some severe contusions on the head. The last seen of him alive was about 11 o'clock Sunday morning, when he was under the influence of liquor. The lungs being filled with blood lead physicians to think he was killed before being thrown into the water. The jury returned a verdict of death from causes unknown. He leaves a wife and one child.

Shooting at Silverton.

Jennings Smith, a well known citizen of Silverton, yesterday shot and severely wounded a German named Hankey, the ball entering on the left side of the nose and coming out at the right temple. Fears are entertained that the wound will prove fatal. Hankey was drunk and had been following Smith for some time; Smith's friends claim the act was one of self-defense, although Hankey was not armed. Both parties are quite inoffensive citizens, and a great diversity of opinion is excited as to the justification of the act. Smith at once gave himself up, and a preliminary examination will take place here to-morrow.

Shipping Notes.

Victoria, Sept. 29.—U. S. Steamer Hassler arrived from Sitka last night.

Steamer Burned.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the new steamboat Elizabeth J. Irving, while on her second trip to Yale, took fire at the town of Hope, on Fraser river, and was totally consumed. She had on board the mails, eight passengers and all freight of railway and other goods. Everything was destroyed totally. All the white passengers, it is thought, were saved, but it is believed a number of Indians lost their lives. The E. J. Irving belonged to the Pioneer line of steamers, and was just finished at a cost of $30,000, being fitted with electric lights and all other modern improvements. Full particulars soon.

It was an a sound box and the music was evident, ly simple abouts one thing. "Carry it forward," he roared. WRINKLED FACES.

It is a pain to a girl to see young ladies in their teens with wrinkled and prematurely old faces; nevertheless it is quite common, and to any one who observes the tendency of the times the reason is very apparent. Owing to the many advertisements and bogus testimonials, in which are used the names of eminent physicians and chemists, the unsuspecting and credulous have been induced to use some of the so-called liquid beautifiers, all of which are known to be positively injurious and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will be next to impossible to restore it. Mothers should be very careful to see that their daughters do not use these preparations, but ask for and obtain Slavens' Yosemite Face Powder, the only harmless beautifier. PARKS OF GREAT CITIES.

Park Areas of London, New York and Paris Contrasted.

New York City plumes herself on the ground she has devoted to public parks, but it is small when compared with the parks of London which cover the following area:

	Acres.
Richmond park	2,253
Windsor park	3,800
Hampton Court and Bushy park	1,842
Kew park and gardens	684
Victoria park	300
Wimbledon common	628
Hyde park	400
Green, St. James' and Regent's parks	430
Hampstead heath	240
Kensington gardens	210
Alexandra park	192
Greenwich park	174
Finsbury park	115
Total	11,?38

There are besides the parks proper which are included in this list a large number of so-called "downs," "commons," and fields, some of which have an area of between fifty and one hundred acres, that run the aggregate up to at least 15,000 acres. The following are the areas of the New York parks:

	Acres.
Central Park	864
Riverside Park	178
Morningside Park	48
Mount Morris Park	20
High Bridge	23
The Battery	21
Tompkins	10½
City Hall	8¼
Washington	9½
Union	3½
Madison	6½
Reservoir	4½
Stuyvesant	4½

But Paris eclipses London as much as London does New York. The Paris parks are thus described: In the extent, picturesque beauty and art embellishment of her magnificent pleasure grounds, Paris is without an equal. All that art in its varied resources could contribute, all that the most generous expenditure of money could accomplish, all that human ingenuity could devise, have united to render the parks of Paris superior to those of all the other capitals of Europe combined. Within the limits of the city proper there are, it is true, with the exception of the park of Monceaux—which is the perfection of landscape gardening—and a few other highly ornamental spaces, but beyond the boundaries there are, at distances of from less than a mile to ten, fifteen and twenty miles, grand parks like the Bois de Boulogne, the Bois de Vincennes, St. Cloud, St. Germain, the Champs Elysees, the Buttes Chaumont, and many others. The Bois de Boulogne and the Bois de Vincennes have each 2500 acres, while in the park of St. Cloud there are 1000 acres. It is almost needless to say that they add largely not only to the beauty but to the pecuniary benefit of the city, and attract tens of thousands of the pleasure seekers from the old and new world to the brilliant capital of the French republic. Within a little more than an hour's travel there is the great forest of Fontainebleau, embracing over an area of 42,000 acres, and which, in addition to its natural beauties of grove and meadow, has several beautifully-cultivated tracts of land, blooming with the choicest plants and flowers. Of so-called parks in Paris and its immediate vicinity there are about 6000 acres, out of public grounds, including the forest of Fontainebleau there are over 170,000 acres.

Speed Across the Atlantic.

[New York World.]

The steamship Arizona of the Guion line, is reported to have made the passage between Sandy Hook and Queenstown in seven days, eight hours and thirteen minutes. To cross the Atlantic inside of seven days and a half, as has been done occasionally by ships of the White Star line and by the Arizona, requires a peculiarly favorable combination of circumstances. The winds must be almost or quite fair, the sea not too rough and the ship's engines in the best possible working order. Forty-three days of heavy head wind and sea will add what might otherwise have been a seven and a half day trip into one of eight and a half or nine. The minimum of time, however, is being reduced, that seven-day passages are likely to be as common place performances as eight days at present. A number of new ships are promised for this fall and for the summer service of next year, which will be faster than any now going between America and England. "Nothing under four hundred miles a day, in any reasonable weather" is predicted for some of the forthcoming ships. Their owners hence it should not only be possible but easy to reach London within six days of leaving New York. Nor will bad weather be likely to make a difference to the steamships of the future. Blow high or low, time will no doubt be as precisely kept as on a railway. Add to speed a proportionate increase in comfort and strict attention to well-defined lane routes for safety, and the lot of the ocean traveler is likely to be a very "easy" one. His wants are already pretty well supplied in the matter of safety and comfort. Enterprising lines like the White Star are deserving of praise for the progress already made in this respect. To the White Star people is due the credit of waking up their older conservative rivals to a practical consideration of the fact that the passage to Europe can be made inside ten days, and made without depriving the traveler of the ordinary comforts of life. The Cunard company followed rather disgracefully, though if it is true, as reported, that the new steamer, the Servia, is modelled on the old lines of Russia, we may not expect any great advance in speed from that quarter.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Guiteau complains that his jail is leaky. The neglect of the authorities to lodge this person in sumptuous splendor is one of the most aggravating slights he has ever experienced.

Out on the Kansas ranches they spurn with indignation the charge that they are not in favor of the prohibition law. They are in favor of it, especially. What they object to is its enforcement.

The New York Times is running a muck of popular traditions. Having demolished Joan of Arc, it has turned its attention to the very living question whether Pocahontas was ever married to John Smith. The Times will get itself disliked of the first families of Virginia if it insists upon knocking their pet squaw out of their genealogies.

Catarrh a
POISON
Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important points:
1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local, but usually constitutional.
2. That, being Constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.
3. That impurities in the nostrils, are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.
4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption.
5. That Smokes, Douches, Insufflations and Insoluble Snuffs, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.
6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by the purulent mucous wherever located.
Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 30, 1881.

METHODISM AND THE STAGE.

The ecumenical council of Methodism, which has just finished its sitting in London, was the first session of the kind since the institution of the religious order of that name. One hundred and fifty-two years have elapsed since John and Charles Wesley "reading the bible and seeing they could not be saved without holiness, followed after it and invited others to do so." That was the beginning of Methodism. Since then its growth and spread have been marvelous, until now it numbers a membership of about five millions, and claims a supporting population of twenty-five millions. It is, therefore, the largest Protestant ecclesiastical body in the world. It is very fitting that this first great council of the denomination should have been held on the parent soil, in a church erected by Mr. Wesley himself, and near which still reposes the ashes of himself and coadjutors. City Road chapel was built in 1777-8, and its pulpit has been occupied by the most eminent divines in the denomination. On the opening of the present council, it was occupied by Bishop Simpson—the Nestor of American Methodism—one of the wisest leaders and most eloquent advocates of the cause. The council was composed of four hundred delegates, embracing thirty distinct branches of Methodism. The United States was represented by fifteen or sixteen branches, Canada by four, and Great Britain by ten. These do not differ materially on doctrine, but are separated mainly on questions of church government.

The sessions of the council continued two weeks—each day being devoted to consideration of one or more special topics. One of the questions discussed was the old one of amusements. Among a people whose religion depends largely on personal conduct, the Puritan feeling may naturally be expected to prevail largely. Hence though Methodism is not a lineal descendant of Puritanism, yet its character was in the beginning largely affected by Puritan influences, which have continued in force, though of course materially weakened, to this day. In common with most other branches of Protestantism, and in greater degree than some others, the Methodist church has always raised its voice against "sinful amusements," chief among which the theater has been reckoned. So again, the late council, after a somewhat extended discussion, condemned theater-going as an amusement in which Methodists should not indulge.

Now, while it is true that much is presented on the stage which demands the severest condemnation, nevertheless it must be questioned whether indiscriminate denunciation of the stage is judicious. Too much severity in virtue and morals often turns into error. The theatre is liable to abuse. The same may be said of nearly everything in this world. It is better to instruct the young to discriminate and to judge for themselves. Since they must and will have amusement it is best to bring them up so that they may be able to distinguish between that which is reputable and that which is low. Hence it is not good judgment to characterize all stage representations as evil. There is no propriety in classing them as all bad alike. For it is not true, and as the assertion cannot be supported it will do more harm than good. The fact is, as a judicious writer on this subject has said, the managers present on the stage the sort of performances which they think will be the most popular, and, as they do not expect the religious community will attend them. They make them suit the class which do attend them. The only possible way to remove all the objectionable features of the stage is for the people of the best intelligence and morals to go to the theatre when it offers pure and refining performances, and to stay away from it when it offers any of the opposite character. They would form a more attractive class to the managers than the immoral class, and, as soon as it was recognized that they would patronize the play, the play would not be of a kind to drive them away.

And further, though the church and theater have long been at odds, it is truly said that it would be very much better if they could work together to teach the highest and best lessons of manhood and virtue. The theater draws so many people within its doors, and so it will always continue to do, no matter how often or severely it is condemned. It is one of the greatest of all public teachers, and the leaders of public sentiment and those who would direct public morals aright should rather make it an aid to their cause than an enemy. Just now the stage generally does not teach the best lessons, but we believe it might be made to do so if the best people encourage it to do so. There is in England a public censor of the stage, but there is no censor so powerful for good or ill as the public themselves, and the public should do its part towards elevating the character of dramatic performances by giving its support to those performances only which purify and elevate the mind. Our young men and women will not stay away from the theatre because the church condemns it, and as long as that is the case the church should use its great influence to reform the stage and so make it a fit amusement for the young.

RAILROAD POINTS.

The annual report of the directors of the Northern Pacific railroad company to the stockholders of that corporation shows that in November last negotiations were successfully completed for sale to a syndicate consisting of Drexel, Morgan & Co., Winslow, Lanier & Co. and August Belmont & Co., of forty million dollars general first mortgage railroad and land grant six per cent. gold bonds. It is deemed that this amount will be sufficient to complete and equip the road. The main line from Thomson Junction, near Duluth, to a connection with the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line at Wallula Junction, is 1684 miles. Of this distance the following is completed and in operation: On the eastern end, Thomson Junction, to a point twenty-five miles beyond Glendive, in Montana 668 miles; on the western end from Wallula Junction in Washington territory, to a point east thereof, 200 miles; total, 868 miles: leaving to be constructed to complete the line between Lake Superior and the Pacific coast, 816 miles. The other portions of the main line to be constructed are as follows: Wisconsin division, from Thomson junction to the Montreal river (twenty-five miles of which are under construction) 22 miles; Wallula Junction to Portland, 238 miles; Portland to Kalama, 39 miles; Cascade mountain branch, 219 miles; total 618 miles.

The story that Secretary Blaine is trying to "make up" with President Arthur so as to retain his place at the head of the state department is doubtless a piece of inventions from the Conkling camp. Mr. Blaine can have no desire to remain connected with an administration which he knows will be surrounded by influences bitterly hostile to him. It would be an uncomfortable and trying position, and he would be obliged to quit it sooner or later. Knowing this, it may be expected that he will withdraw before very long. Inactivity of the Conkling faction, including the movements of Senator Jones and others, seems to indicate that the new administration will be under influences very different from the surroundings of the late president.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican warns the good people of this country that the attempt to throw off the taxes on beer, whisky and tobacco, in order to fasten more firmly upon us the taxes on sugar, cottons, woolens, silks, steel rails and all imported manufactures is about to be made in earnest, and that it will be supported by the corn, whisky and tobacco states and by the pig-iron states, and that it will need every vote which consideration of revenue reform or moral reform can bring up to save the internal revenue system from being thrown overboard."

The following from the Inter-Ocean applies just as well in Portland as in Chicago: "People should remember that in this climate the way to preserve health is to light fires in grates and furnaces upon all cool or damp evenings. There is no better prophylactic to every form of disease than good fires in the house. Damp walls and clothing are fruitful sources of ills in many homes. A little coal is much cheaper than a large doctor bill. These are facts it is well to remember.

The suggestion of a correspondent that the money subscribed to the Garfield monument fund be applied to the erection and support of an educational or eleemosynary institution, which shall bear the name of the lead statesman, is one which will appear proper to a great many people. The men whose names are mentioned built for themselves monuments as lasting as any, and blessed the living at the same time.

Mr. Geo. F. Wells, who has been appointed to the office of superintendent of streets, is a thorough business man, possessing much knowledge that an officer in that position would find of daily use.

It is wrong to shoot Guiteau, says the New York Herald. Every hoop field on the continent cries out against the outrage. Let everything do its ordained work for the good of the world.

The lack of dispatches in this morning's issue is owing to a break in telegraphic communication with the east from some cause at present unknown.

Beauty, Durability and Economy Combined.

The attention of consumers is called to the superior quality of the AVERILL MIXED PAINTS, which have been used nearly twenty years with great satisfaction, and for the following reasons: Its DURABILITY is acknowledged to exceed any other paint. Its BEAUTY and BRILLIANCY of finish are incomparable, even leading many to believe that varnish is employed in its manufacture. CITY.

CARPENTERS' MEETING.—Wednesday evening a meeting of journeymen carpenters was held at ... Hall. The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. H. M. Hallett, who was called to the chair, and A. E. Lewellen was chosen secretary. After considerable discussion participated in by a large number of those present as to the best plan for the protection of their mutual interests, a committee consisting of Messrs. ... and Stocker was appointed to devise a plan for the organization of the journeymen carpenters of Portland into a general union, for their own protection and the benefit of contractors. The meeting then adjourned, to meet next Wednesday night at the same hall at 8 o'clock, to listen to the report of the committee and take such action as the meeting may decide upon.

WITHDREW HIS PLEA.—James Byce, the burglar, who has been traveling under several aliases, was brought into the state circuit court yesterday for trial. The defendant was under four separate indictments for robbery, to each of which he had entered a plea of not guilty. Deeming the testimony against himself conclusive and concluding that it would be a hopeless fight to endeavor to prove himself innocent of the charges, Byce by consent of the district attorney Caples and his own counsel, withdrew his plea of not guilty previously entered and substituted a plea of guilty. Judge Stott remanded the prisoner, and ordered him to appear Saturday morning for sentence. Byce will probably be sentenced for about 15 or 20 years.

CHANGE OF TIME.—The Oregonian railway company's steamers, commencing to-morrow morning, will leave the foot of Madison street at 8:15 A. M., and connect at Fulquartz landings with west side trains for Airlie, arriving at the latter point at 1:30 P. M. Returning, trains will leave Airlie at 8:45 A. M., and connect with boat at Fulquartz, arriving at 3:30 P. M. On the east side the 8:15 boat connects at Rays landing with trains for Brownsville and intermediate points.

GUILTY AS CHARGED.—Johnson alias Corlings, the ... old reprobate, who was indicted some time ago for assault with intent to commit an outrage on a little eight year old girl, was tried yesterday in the state circuit court. It is superfluous to say that the jury returned promptly a verdict of guilty as charged. Carlings was ordered to appear this morning for sentence.

RESOLUTIONS.

Councilman Gerdes called attention to the fact that witnesses summoned to appear before the committee who were investigating the charges against City Surveyor Chapman, had refused to testify unless witness fees were paid. He also stated that the committee had engaged a stenographer, whom they expected the council would pay. A recess of five minutes was granted for the committee to prepare a resolution covering the case.

A resolution was introduced that parties bringing charges against city officers before the council should bear expenses of witnesses and attorneys. After expression of views by the mayor and several councilmen in opposition thereto, the resolution was withdrawn.

Councilman Hewett then introduced the following:

Resolved, That in any case where a charge is made against any city official to the city council, there shall no be any witness fees paid except by authority of the council.

After some discussion it was withdrawn.

Councilman Honeyman offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the special committee appointed to investigate charges against W. S. Chapman, city surveyor, be authorized to make an expenditure not exceeding $60 for witness fees and the employment of a stenographer, to be expended as follows: $20 for pay of stenographer; $20 for witness fees of Morye, and $20 for witness fees of Chapman.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the committee on fire and water and chief engineer be and are hereby authorized to advertise for and receive proposals for furnishing horses and drivers for Nos. 1 and 3 engine companies. Proposals to state the price per month for furnishing horses, drivers, feed, shoeing, etc. The owner of the horses to take all risk of injury or damage to horses.

Resolved, That the committee on fire and water be authorized and directed to advertise for and receive proposals for the renting of the house on Morrison street recently occupied by Vigilance Hook and Ladder Co.

Resolved, That the auditor and clerk be and is hereby authorized to draw a warrant in favor of Couch Engine Co. No. 6 for the sum of $70 83, the proportion due then as allowance from Sept. 13 to Sept. 30, 1881.

Resolved, That the city attorney be and is hereby instructed to submit to this council at its next meeting an ordinance providing for the closing of theaters at 12 o'clock at night unless specially permitted by the committee on health and police to continue later.

A PLEA IN BEHALF OF THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

At the last meeting of the Ladies' Relief Society I then learned that there were but six hundred dollars in the treasury. Those words have been ringing in my ears ever since, only six hundred.

Can it be possible that in this wealthy city, where so many of our citizens count their money by the millions, that this charitable institution which we are pleased to call our Children's Home, should be so deficient in means?

Those of us who have the managing of the finances in our own homes know how quickly six hundred dollars vanish, even with the greatest economy. It is high time for us to investigate this subject, and look it squarely in the face.

The population of this city is steadily increasing, and with our already large number of children and the many others that may be added to them before the winter is over, the question now is, what are we going to do for money to take care of these children of misfortune. Shall we turn a deaf ear to their piteous cry, and let them grow up to become the inmates of our jails and reeking slums that beset them on every street corner?

Isn't it better for us to make a sacrifice, and sow the seed of God's eternal truth, in their young hearts now, and thereby save ourselves from a greater trouble and expense in the future.

I was told the other day that we must have patience, and wait, and perhaps some rich man might endow the home at his death. But we do not believe in waiting to step into dead men's shoes, for it is a dangerous thing to do. We do want our living men to endow this home.

When can we have a more fitting time than now, when our hearts have been made so tender by our recent great sorrow.

Let us endow this home in memory of our late martyred president, who, when a child, was early deprived of a father's loving care, and whose great heart ever beat in tenderest sympathy for little children; he himself having climbed to the topmost round of the ladder by his own exertions, while the whole world looked on with admiration and our own fifty millions of people delighted to do him honor.

What could be more pleasing to him, if perchance God would permit him to look down from the battlements of heaven to see his own name inscribed on the Children's Home in burnished letters of gold, "Sacred to the memory of James A. Garfield."

"There is one still greater than he, who once sojourned upon the earth. He was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, but he never forgot the little children. They were ever the objects of his love and peculiar care. He still counts their tears and they are reserved in bottles before the great white throne. May we be very careful not to make them too heavy in the recording angel's hand, lest they be poured out in condemnation upon us.

"There are little ones glancing about, in my path,
In want of a friend and a guide;
There are dear little eyes looking up into mine,
Whose tears might be easily dried.
But Jesus may beckon the children away,
In the midst of their grief and their glee;
Will any of them at the beautiful gate,
Be waiting and watching for me?

PORTLAND, Sept. 29, 1881.

THE GARFIELD MONUMENT.

Honor the Dead by Helping the Living.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

It seems to us proper to ask ourselves two or three questions at this time in relation to the proposed monument of stone, or marble, or bronze, or silver or gold:

First—Knowing, as we do, the practical, humanitarian, Christian qualities of President Garfield's nature, can we by any stretch of imagination bring ourselves to believe that such a monument, built at such an immense outlay as is proposed, would meet with approval?

Second—Knowing, as we do, President Garfield's clear perception of the value of education and knowing, as we do, the heroic struggle through which he passed to secure the learning and culture which enabled him to serve his home and country so well, may we not naturally conclude that the erection of a monument in the form of an institution, or a group of institutions of an educational, or eleemosynary character, would command the approval of the deceased president?

Third—Is not the idea of erecting an immense pile of materials in the form of a monument un-American?

The protracted effort thus far vainly made to complete the Washington monument, affirms that it is. The notable and meritorious achievements of Girard, Peabody and Stuart in the erection of imperishable monuments which testify of benevolence, philanthropy and practical Christian sentiment, more fitly express the genuine sentiment of the American people and of the noble heart of James A. Garfield.

Fifty millions of people are invited to contribute $1 each to erect a monument this fashion. The writer certainly hopes that one fifth of the people may have the ability and the privilege—has no doubt they have the disposition and desire—to lay upon the nation's altar $10,000,000, as a small expression of their deep and genuine sorrow. Ten millions of dollars for a monument! Grand and becoming expression of a nation's sorrow—provided the monument it erects is becoming.

If only one in twenty shall give, then two and a half millions of dollars will be at the disposition of the national committee to erect a monument, that may perpetuate the precious memory of J. A. Garfield in the hearts of the islands, helped by this Garfield monument fund, in the morning or the evening of life.

THE CASCADES LOCKS.

Public Meeting at The Dalles—Resolutions—Addresses by M. C. George and Others.

[The Dalles Times.]

Last Friday a report was current on our streets, that J. F. Smith had been sent here from the treasury department at Washington to inquire into the propriety of stopping any further appropriations for the construction of the locks at the Cascades. Some of our prominent citizens consulted together, and had posters issued calling a public meeting at the opera house at 7 o'clock that evening. When the hour arrived, a large crowd of citizens gathered at the place appointed, all filled with enthusiasm in the importance of the projected improvement.

The meeting was called to order by Col. Thomas S. Lang, and Dr. Jas. A. Richardson elected chairman, and Mr. John Michell secretary.

The chairman read the call for the meeting, stating that it was a mistake that any commissioner had been appointed to examine into the propriety of further appropriations for the locks, that the member of the Smith family named was anything else. He hoped however, that the effect of the meeting would be good.

Col. N. H. Gates then addressed the meeting, setting forth the necessity of the early completion of the locks at the Cascades, and the advantages to accrue therefrom. He suggested that a committee be appointed from different parts of eastern Oregon and Washington, in order to prepare proper memorials and see that they are presented to congress. His remarks were listened to with marked attention.

Col. Thos. S. Lang made a motion that a committee of three be appointed by the chair or otherwise to prepare proper memorial to congress showing our necessities and praying an increase of appropriation. Some discussion ensued, and the motion was carried.

On motion the chair was empowered to appoint a committee.

Col. Lang presented the following resolutions and their adoption was moved:

Resolved, That the settlers upon twenty to thirty thousand square miles of fertile territory upon the upper Columbia river and its tributaries have a right to demand a free highway to the ocean.

Resolved, That the great increase of the industrial interests of eastern Oregon and Washington territory calls for united and earnest petition to congress for the immediate completion of the locks at the Cascades of the Columbia.

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the critical examination now being made by Hon. M. C. George of the difficulties presented at the Cascades and elsewhere to the effectual opening of this grand river to free navigation, and that we tender him our hearty thanks as our representative in congress for his earnest personal efforts in our behalf.

Pending the adoption of these resolutions, Hon. M. C. George was called for, and the chairman introduced him to the audience.

Mr. George said that when he left Portland he had no idea of meeting the people of this section and addressing them. He had traveled through the different parts of the state to learn the wants of each, so that he could fairly represent them in congress. Last winter he spent in Washington city to learn the manner of work there. He had personally viewed the locks in company with Capt. Powell, and was happily disappointed in the cost of these improvements. The amount would be much less than he apprehended, both for the locks at the Cascades and removing the impediments above this point. He had ascended the river above this city as far as navigable and then had walked a considerable distance in company with an engineer, who assured him that these impediments could be readily removed. He recommended that all the statistical information possible should be collected and sent to him at Washington city, which would help him to present the matter forcibly before congress. He pledged himself to do all in his power to get the necessary congressional aid for this purpose. Also that memorials, having as many signatures as possible, should be sent to Washington city. The Columbia river and its tributaries drain an area of 395,000 square miles equal to the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Ohio Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and one-half of West Virginia. This region of country has only 400,000 population, while the states mentioned have 28,500,000. The climate of this country is much preferable to that of the states mentioned, and he does not believe the general government will refuse to open this grand river when it fully realizes the necessities.

The speaker contended that water communication is the natural competitor of the railroads. Give the people of this region the highway, free of impediment, which the God of nature had given them, and that will regulate freight charges. The Erie canal regulates the charges of transportation in the east, and a free Columbia would do the same for this country. He spoke very eloquently on this subject, and expressed himself fully assured that the United States would help us in this matter as soon as it was properly presented.

CARPENTERS' MEETING.—Wednesday evening a meeting of journeymen carpenters was held at Good Templar Hall. The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. D. M. [illegible] HIS PLEA.—James Byce, the burglar, who has been traveling under several aliases, was brought into the state circuit court yesterday for trial. The defendant was under four separate indictments for robbery, to each of which he had entered a plea of not guilty. Deeming the testimony against himself conclusive, and concluding that it would be a hopeless fight to endeavor to prove himself innocent of the charges, Byce, by consent of District Attorney Caples and his own counsel, withdrew his plea of not guilty, previously entered, and substituted a plea of guilty. Judge Stott remanded the prisoner, and ordered him to appear Saturday morning for sentence. Byce will probably be sentenced for about 15 or 20 years.

A PLEA IN BEHALF OF THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

At the last meeting of the Ladies Relief Society I then learned that there were but six hundred dollars in the treasury. These words have been ringing in my ears ever since, only six hundred.

Can it be possible that in this wealthy city, where so many of our citizens count their money by the millions, that this charitable institution which we are pleased to call our Children's Home, should be so deficient in funds?

Those of us who have the managing of the finances in our own homes know how quickly six hundred dollars vanish, even with the greatest economy. It is high time for us to investigate this subject, and look it squarely in the face.

The population of this city is steadily increasing, and with our already large number of children, and the many others that may be added to them before the winter is over, the question now is, what are we going to do for money to take care of these children of misfortune. Shall we turn a deaf ear to their piteous cry, and let them grow up to become the inmates of our jails and reeking slums that beset them on every street corner?

Isn't it better for us to make a sacrifice, and sow the seed of God's eternal truth in their young hearts now, and thereby save ourselves from a greater trouble and expense in the future.

I was told the other day that we must have patience, and wait, and perhaps some rich man might endow the home at his death. But we do not believe in waiting to step into dead men's shoes, for it is a dangerous thing to do. We do want our living men to endow this home.

When can we have a more fitting time than now, when our hearts have been made so tender by our recent great sorrow.

Let us endow this home in memory of our late martyred president who, when a child, was early deprived of a father's loving care, and whose great heart over flowed in tenderest sympathy for little children; he himself having climbed to the topmost round of the ladder by his own exertions, while the whole world looked on with admiration and our own fifty millions of people delighted to do him honor!

What could be more pleasing to him, if perchance God would permit him to look down from the battlements of heaven to see his own name inscribed on the Children's Home in burnished letters of gold, "Sacred to the memory of James A. Garfield."

There is one still greater than he, who once sojourned upon the earth. He was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, but he never forgot the little children. They were ever the objects of his love and peculiar care. He still counts their tears and they are preserved in bottles before the great white throne. May we be very careful not to make them too heavy for the recording angel's hand, lest they be poured out in condemnation upon us.

"There are little ones glancing about in my path,
In want of a friend and a guide;
There are dear little eyes looking up into mine,
Whose tears might be easily dried.
But Jesus may beckon the children away,
In the midst of their grief and their glee,
Will any of them at the beautiful gate,
Be waiting and watching for me?"

THE GARFIELD MONUMENT

Honor the Dead by Helping the Living.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It seems to us proper to ask ourselves two or three questions at this time in relation to the proposed monument of stone, or marble, or bronze, or silver or gold:

First—Knowing, as we do, the practical, humanitarian, Christian qualities of President Garfield's nature, can we by any stretch of imagination bring ourselves to believe that such a monument, built at such an immense outlay as is proposed, would meet with approval?

Second—Knowing, as we do, President Garfield's clear perception of the value of education, and knowing, as we do, the heroic struggle through which he passed to secure the learning and culture which enabled him to serve his home and country so well, may we not naturally conclude, that the erection of a monument in the form of an institution, or a group of institutions of an educational or eleemosynary character, would command the approval of the deceased president?

Third—Is not the idea of erecting an immense pile of materials in the form of a monument un-American?

The protracted effort thus far vainly made to complete the Washington monument, affirms that it is. The notable, and meritorious achievements of Girard, Peabody and Stuart, in the erection of imperishable monuments which testify of benevolence, philanthropy and practical Christian sentiment, more fitly express the genuine sentiment of the American people and of the noble heart of James A. Garfield.

Fifty millions of people are invited to contribute $1 each to erect a monument; this is well. The writer certainly hopes that one fifth of the people may have the ability and the privilege—as no doubt they have the disposition and desire—to lay upon the nation's altar $10,000,000, as a small expression of their deep and genuine sorrow. Ten millions of dollars for a monument! Grand and becoming expression of a nation's sorrow—provided the monument it erects is becoming.

If only one in twenty shall give their two and a half millions of dollars will be at the disposition of the national committee to erect a monument, that may perpetuate the precious memory of J. A. Garfield in the hearts of thousands, helped by this Garfield monument fund, in the morning or the evening of life.

THE CASCADES LOCKS.

[The Dalles Times.]

Last Friday a report was current upon our streets that a Mr. Smith had been sent here from the treasury department at Washington, to inquire into the propriety of stopping any further appropriations for the construction of the locks at the Cascades. Some of our prominent citizens consulted together, and had posters issued calling a public meeting at the opera house at 7 o'clock that evening. When the hour arrived, a large crowd of citizens gathered at the place appointed, all filled with enthusiasm on the importance of the projected improvement.

The meeting was called to order by Col. Thomas S. Lang, and Dr. Jas. A. Richardson elected chairman, and Mr. John Michell secretary.

The chairman read the call for the meeting, stating that it was a mistake that any commissioner had been appointed to examine into the propriety of further appropriations for the locks, that the member of the Smith family named was mythical. He hoped however, that the effect of the meeting would be good.

Col. N. H. Gates then addressed the meeting, setting forth the necessity of the early completion of the locks at the Cascades and the advantages to accrue therefrom. He suggested that a committee be appointed, from different parts of eastern Oregon and Washington, in order to prepare proper memorials and see that they are presented to congress. His remarks were listened to with marked attention.

Col. Thos. S. Lang made a motion that a committee of ten citizens be appointed by the chair or otherwise to prepare proper memorials to congress showing our necessities and praying an increase of appropriations. Some discussion ensued and the motion was carried.

On motion the chair was empowered to appoint a committee.

Col. Lang presented the following resolutions, and their adoption was moved:

Resolved, That the settlers upon twenty to thirty thousand square miles of fertile territory upon the the upper Columbia river and its tributaries have a right to demand a free highway to the ocean.

Resolved, That the great increase of the industrial interests of eastern Oregon and Washington territory calls for a united and earnest petition to congress for the immediate completion of the locks at the cascades of the Columbia.

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the critical examination now being made by Hon. M. C. George of the difficulties presented at the Cascades and elsewhere to the effectual opening of this grand river to free navigation, and that we tender him our hearty thanks as our representative in congress for his earnest personal efforts in our behalf.

Pending the adoption of these resolutions, Hon. M. C. George was called for and the chairman introduced him to the audience.

Mr. George said that when he left Portland he had no idea of meeting the people of this section and addressing them. He had traveled through the different parts of the state to learn the wants of each, so that he could fairly represent them in congress. Last winter he spent in Washington city to learn the manner of work there. He had personally viewed the locks in company with Capt. Powell, and was happily disappointed in the cost of these improvements. The amount would be much less than he apprehended, both for the locks at the Cascades, and removing the impediments above this point. He had ascended the river above this city as far as navigable, and then had walked a considerable distance in company with an engineer, who assured him that these impediments could be readily removed. He recommended that all the statistical information possible should be collected and sent to him at Washington city, which would help him to present the matter forcibly before congress. He pledged himself to do all in his power to get the necessary congressional aid for this purpose. Also that memorials, having as many signatures as possible, should be sent to Washington city. The Columbia river and its tributaries drain an area of 395,000 square miles, equal to the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and one-half of West Virginia. This region of country has only 400,000 population, while the states mentioned have 26,500,000. The climate of this country is much preferable to that of the states mentioned, and he does not believe the general government will refuse to open this grand river when it fully realizes the necessities.

The speaker contended that water communication is the natural competitor of the railroads. Give the people of this region the highway, free of impediment, which the God of nature had given them; and that will regulate freight charges. The Erie canal regulates the charges of transportation in the east, and a free Columbia would do the same for this country. He spoke very eloquently on this subject, and expressed himself fully assured that the United States would help us in this matter as soon as it was properly presented.

CITY.

CARPENTERS' MEETING.—Wednesday evening a meeting of journeymen carpenters was held at Good Templar Hall. The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. D. M. Hallett, who was called to the chair, and A. E. Lewellen was chosen secretary. After considerable discussion, participated in by a large number of those present as to the best policy to pursue for the protection of their mutual interests, a committee consisting of Messrs. Blaney, Emerick and Stoyfer was appointed to devise means for the organization of the journeymen carpenters of Portland into a general union for their own protection and the benefit of contractors. The meeting then adjourned, to meet next Wednesday night at the same hall at 8 o'clock, to listen to the report of the committee and take such action as the meeting may decide upon.

WITHDRAWN HIS PLEA.—James Byce, the burglar who has been traveling under several aliases, was brought into the state circuit court yesterday for trial. The defendant was under four separate indictments for robbery, to each of which he had entered a plea of not guilty. Deeming the testimony against himself conclusive, and concluding that it would be a hopeless fight to endeavor to prove himself innocent of the charges, Byce, by consent of District Attorney Caples and his own counsel, withdrew his plea of not guilty, previously entered, and substituted a plea of guilty. Judge Stott remanded the prisoner, and ordered him to appear Saturday morning for sentence. Byce will probably be sentenced for about 15 or 20 years.

CHANGE OF TIME.—The Oregonian railway company's steamers, commencing to-morrow morning, will leave the foot of Madison street at 8:15 A. M., and connect at Falquartz landings with west side trains for Airlie, arriving at the latter point at 6:40 P. M. Returning, trains will leave Airlie at 7:15 A. M. and connect with boats at Falquartz, arriving at Portland at 5:30 P. M. On the east side the 8:15 boat connects at Bays landing with trains for Brownsville and intermediate points.

SENTENCE AT ORANGE.—Johnson alias Corlings, the hardened old reprobate, who was indicted some time ago for assault with intent to commit an outrage on a little eight year old girl, was tried yesterday in the state circuit court. It is superfluous to add that the jury returned promptly a verdict of guilty as charged. Corlings was ordered to appear this morning for sentence.

He also stated that the committee had engaged a stenographer, whom they expected the council would pay. A recess of five minutes was granted for the committee to prepare a resolution covering the case.

A resolution was introduced that parties bringing charges against city officers before the council should bear expenses of witnesses and attorneys. After expression of views by the mayor and several councilmen in opposition thereto, the resolution was withdrawn.

Councilman Hewett then introduced the following:

Resolved, That in any case where a charge is made against any city official to the city council, there shall not be any witness fees paid except by authority of this council.

After some discussion it was withdrawn.

Councilman Honeyman offered the following, which was adopted:

A PLEA IN BEHALF OF THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

At the last meeting of the Ladies' Relief Society I learned that there were but six hundred dollars in the treasury. These words have been ringing in my ears ever since, only six hundred.

Can it be possible that in this wealthy city, where so many of our citizens count their money by the millions, that this charitable institution which we are pleased to call our Children's Home, should be so deficient in means?

Those of us who have the managing of the finances in our own homes know how quickly six hundred dollars vanish, even with the greatest economy. It is high time for us to investigate this subject, and look it squarely in the face.

The population of this city is steadily increasing, and with an already large number of children and the many others that may be added to them before the winter is over, the question now is, what are we going to do for money to take care of these children of misfortune. Shall we turn a deaf ear to their piteous cry, and let them grow up to become the inmates of our jails and reeking slums that beset them on every street corner?

Is it not better for us to make a sacrifice, and sow the seed of God's eternal truths in their young hearts now, and thereby save ourselves from a greater trouble and expense in the future.

I was told the other day that we must have patience and wait, and perhaps some rich man might endow the home at his death. But we do not believe in waiting to step into dead men's shoes, for it is a dangerous thing to do. We do want our living men to endow this home.

When can we have a more fitting time than now, when your hearts have been made so tender by our recent great sorrow.

Let us endow this home in memory of our late martyred president, who, when a child, was early deprived of a father's loving care, and whose great heart ever beat in tenderest sympathy for little children; he himself having climbed to the topmost round of the ladder by his own exertions, while the whole world looked on with admiration and our own fifty millions of people delighted to do him honor.

What could be more pleasing to him, if perchance God would permit him to look down from the battlements of heaven to see his own name inscribed on the Children's Home in burnished letters of gold, "Sacred to the memory of James A. Garfield."

There is one still greater than he, who once sojourned upon the earth. He was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, but he never forgot the little children. They were ever the objects of his love and peculiar care. He still counts their tears and they are preserved in bottles before the great white throne. May we be very careful not to make them too heavy in the recording angel's hand, lest they be poured out in condemnation upon us.

There are little ones glancing about in my path,
In want of a friend and a guide;
There are dear little eyes looking up into mine,
Whose tears might be easily dried.
But Jesus may beckon the children away,
In the midst of their grief and their glee,
Will any of them at the beautiful gate,
Be waiting and watching for me?

BY A MEMBER OF THE RELIEF SOCIETY
PORTLAND, Sept. 29, 1881.

THE GARFIELD MONUMENT.

Honor the Dead by Helping the Living.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I seems to us proper to ask ourselves two or three questions at this time in relation to the proposed monument of stone, or marble, or bronze, or silver or gold.

First—Knowing, as we do, the practical, humanitarian, Christian qualities of President Garfield's nature, can we by any stretch of imagination bring ourselves to believe that such a monument, built at such an immense outlay as is proposed, would meet with approval?

Second—Knowing, as we do, President Garfield's clear perception of the value of education, and knowing, as we do, the heroic struggle through which he passed to secure the learning and culture which enabled him to serve his home and country so well, may we not naturally conclude that the erection of a monument in the form of an institution, or a group of institutions of an educational or eleemosynary character, would command the approval of the deceased president?

Third—Is not the idea of erecting an immense pile of materials in the form of a monument un-American?

The protracted effort thus far vainly made to complete the Washington monument affirms that it is. The notable and meritorious achievements of Girard, Peabody and Stuart, in the erection of imperishable monuments which testify of benevolence, philanthropy and practical Christian sentiment, more fitly express the genuine sentiment of the American people and of the noble heart of James A. Garfield.

Fifty millions of people are invited to contribute $1 each to erect a monument; this is well. The writer certainly hopes that one fifth of the people may have the ability and the privilege—as no doubt they have the disposition and desire—to lay upon the nation's altar $10,000,000, as a small expression of their deep and genuine sorrow. Ten millions of dollars for a monument! Grand and becoming expression of a nation's sorrow—provided the monument it erects is becoming.

If only one in twenty shall give, then two and a half millions of dollars will be at the disposition of the national committee to erect a monument, that may perpetuate the precious memory of J. A. Garfield in the hearts of thousands, helped by this Garfield monument fund, in the morning or the evening of life.

THE CASCADES LOCKS.

[The Dalles Times.]

Last Friday a report was current on our streets that a Mr. Smith had been sent here from the treasury department at Washington, to inquire into the propriety of stopping any further appropriations for the construction of the locks at the Cascades. Some of our prominent citizens consulted together, and had posters issued calling a public meeting at the opera house at 7 o'clock that evening. When the hour arrived, a large crowd of citizens gathered at the place appointed, all filled with enthusiasm on the importance of the proposed improvement.

The meeting was called to order by Col. Thomas S. Lang, and Dr. Jas. A. Richardson elected chairman, and Mr. John Michel secretary.

The chairman read the call for the meeting, stating that it was a mistake that any commissioner had been appointed to examine into the propriety of further appropriations for the locks that the member of the Smith family named was myth-cal. He hoped however, that the effect of the meeting would be good.

Col. N. H. Gates then addressed the meeting, setting forth the necessity of the early completion of the locks at the Cascades and the advantages to accrue therefrom. He suggested that a committee be appointed from different parts of Eastern Oregon and Washington, in order to prepare proper memorials and see that they are presented to congress. His remarks were listened to with marked attention.

Col. Thos. S. Lang made a motion that a committee of ten citizens be appointed by the chair or otherwise to prepare proper memorials to congress showing our necessities and praying an increase of appropriations. Some discussion ensued, and the motion was carried.

On motion the chair was empowered to appoint a committee.

Col. Lang presented the following resolutions, and their adoption was moved:

Resolved, That the settlers upon twenty to thirty thousand square miles of fertile territory upon the the upper Columbia river and its tributaries have a right to demand a free highway to the ocean.

Resolved, That the great increase of the industrial interests of eastern Oregon and Washington territory calls for a united and earnest petition to congress for the immediate completion of the locks at the cascades of the Columbia.

Resolved, That we heartily approve of the critical examination now being made by Hon. M. C. George of the difficulties presented at the Cascades and elsewhere to the effectual opening of this grand river to free navigation, and that we tender him our hearty thanks as our representative in congress for his earnest personal efforts in our behalf.

Pending the adoption of these resolutions, Hon. M. C. George was called for and the chairman introduced him to the audience.

Mr. George said that when he left Portland he had no idea of meeting the people of this section and addressing them. He had traveled through the different parts of the state to learn the wants of each, so that he could fairly represent them in congress. Last winter he spent in Washington city to learn the manner of work there. He has personally viewed the locks in company with Capt. Powell, and was happily disappointed in the cost of these improvements. The amount would be much less than he apprehended, both for the locks at the Cascades and removing the impediments above this point. He had ascended the river above this city as far as navigable, and then had walked a considerable distance in company with an engineer, who assured him that these impediments could be readily removed. He recommended that all the statistical information possible should be collected and sent to him at Washington city, which would help him to present the matter forcibly before congress. He pledged himself to do all in his power to get the necessary congressional aid for this purpose. Also that memorials, having as many signatures as possible, should be sent to Washington city. The Columbia river and its tributaries drain an area of 395,000 square miles, equal to the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and one-half of West Virginia. This region of country has only 100,000 population, while the states mentioned have 20,500,000. The climate of this country is much preferable to that of the states mentioned, and he does not believe the general government will refuse to open this grand river when it fully realizes the necessities.

The speaker contended that water communication is the natural competitor of the railroad. Give the people of this region the highway, free of impediment, which the God of nature had given them, and that will regulate freight charges. The Erie canal regulated the charges of transportation in the east, and a free Columbia would do the same for this country. He spoke very eloquently on this subject, and expressed himself fully assured that the United States would help us in this matter as soon as it was properly presented.

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 30, 1881.

EPITAPH FOR GUITEAU.

No marble tablet, this but common slate,
Nor reared by love, but by a nation's hate,
Which hath no name or word so vile or low
As that of him who rests beneath—
Guiteau!

A poor mean wretch, pursuing phantom spoils,
A loathsome skunk caught in ambition's coils,
A Judas with hell's passions all aglow—
Spit on the traitor's grave—it is Guiteau!

Unloved he lived, and most abhorred he died;
Let toads and serpents round his grave abide;
Let poisonous weeds about this headstone grow,
And on his foul remains grow rank—
Guiteau!

This rugged stone is reared above his head
To tell a thankful world that he is dead.
Henceforth no greater insult man can know
Than to be likened to the vile
Guiteau!

A STAR ROUTE SWINDLE.

Boise to Winnemucca—Another Case of "Expedition" and Robbery.

[New York Times, Sept. 12.]

The record in relation to this route is short, but an examination of it leads the investigator back into the previous contract term, and brings him face to face with some of the great Barlow & Huntley contracts under other administrations. This route runs from Boise City, the capital of Idaho, in a southwesterly direction, to Winnemucca, a station on the Central Pacific railway in Nevada. For the current contract term the record may be condensed as follows:

Route No. 42,101—Boise City to Winnemucca.
Distance—280 miles.
Service—Seven times per week.
Time Schedule—60 hours, or 4⅔ miles per hour.
Bids—There were eight bids, the lowest of which was $30,000. The bidder was Hugh White, one of Salisbury's men, and the route was turned over to Salisbury on sub-contract at the full price.

There are hardly any papers, except a suggestion made by a senator that it would be better to allow 84 hours in winter. Salisbury seems to have been pretty well satisfied with his contract. No trips could be added, for there were already seven, and there was but little, if any, room for expedition. This most interesting period of this route's history has passed, and to find that period one must turn to the books which contain the entries for the term 1874-78, and even to those for the term 1870-74. Barlow and the Huntleys flourished during the eight years from 1870 to 1878, and they controlled the long routes in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. Boise City was connected with the Central Pacific road by two lines, one coming up from Winnemucca, and the other from Kelton, at the northern end of Great Salt Lake. The last named line ran through Boise City to the Dalles, in Oregon, and was 750 miles long. The pay was originally $102,000 per annum, and it was raised to $220,000. Barlow also had the route from Oroville to Portland, on which the pay was raised from $134,000 to $203,325 per annum in 1872. It is apparent that Barlow began to withdraw from the business at the end of the term 1874-8, and the new men began to come in. A part of the long route from Kelton to the Dalles (the Dalles to Baker City) fell into the hands of the Dorseys, and the line from Boise City to Winnemucca became the property of the Salisburys. Barlow was retiring, but he continued to be represented by his son-in-law and the Huntleys. From that time on the Salisburys and the Dorsey party were to take his place in the star service. The remarkable career of Bradley Barlow in this business is a chapter yet to be written.

It has been shown that for the current term the Boise City and Winnemucca route is in the hands of the Salisburys, at $30,000 per year. During the term 1870-4 the pay was $77,000 per annum, or almost $40 per mile for one trip per week, a price even in excess of that allowed by Brady on the most costly of his Texas temporary routes. Let us see what the record was for 1874-8. The lowest bid was that of William De Lacey, a man of straw, who took the route at $13,950, and very soon failed, Barlow & Huntley in the meantime performing temporary service at $200 per day, or $73,000 per year. Then the department went up the list and discovered that James H. Gilbert, another representative of Barlow and the Huntleys, would do the work for $47,000, and he was awarded the contract. In this way the combination retained control of the route and kept up the pay.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune recently wrote concerning the threatened conflict between the ministry and the house of lords upon the land bill, which was averted by the virtual surrender of the lords:

It is not too much to say that half a dozen sentences of encouragement, or even of recognition from Mr. Gladstone, would have turned the agitation against the house of lords into an irresistible movement for its immediate overthrow. If he had been the man his enemies delight to paint him, he would have spoken those sentences. Being, however, a minister with a singularly delicate sense of ministerial responsibility, and wholly averse to all unnecessary disturbance of the existing system, he kept silence. The forces he could instantly have marshalled behind him would have been more powerful than have been seen in motion since 1832. I have said often enough in discussing what is called the Republican movement in England, that there was no important party among the people which made it their first object to upset the throne. There is a very numerous and powerful section which has, perhaps, no great respect for throne or crown, but which, nevertheless, is in no particular hurry to substitute an elected president for an hereditary monarch. The reason is that they do not think the sovereign an obstacle, or the principal obstacle, to the reforms they want to effect, and being above all things a practical people, the English will tolerate any abuse or anachronism or usurpation which is not inconvenient to them. They want (the radicals of whom I am speaking) to get rid of the church. They want universal suffrage. They want, or will want, some alteration in the tenure of land, and want other things more or less urgently. They have long seen that the house of lords was likely to resist other schemes of a revolutionary kind and use such powers as were left them to obstruct them. The crown they were well aware, had long since relinquished its claim to direct interference with legislation, but the house of lords had not relinquished its claim. In a modified way, the lords were yearly asserting it, and on questions which interested them they interfered as far as they dared and opposed and delayed the measures desired by the nation. The repeated use of this power of opposition and delay had given rise to a feeling of irritation, and among reflecting radicals to a doubt whether, before attempting any further reform it might not be more expeditious, once for all, to reform the house of lords. They did not so much object to the legislative authority of the peers, because it was hereditary and irresponsible, as because it was inconvenient. It was not that the lords resisted this or that measure of reform. It was that they resisted all reforms and had shown themselves opposed to reforms, not because they were unwise or extreme, but because they were reforms. And so for many years past the currents of political opinion, which in France, for example, were directed against monarchy as an institution, have in England been directed rather against the house of lords, and have been sapping the foundations of that venerable structure.

THE AGED MOTHER.

How She Heard the News of the President's Death.

During all these days since July 2d, the mother of the president has remained hopeful. She had faith that her noble son would be spared to serve his country and comfort her declining years. Mrs. Larabee, who is his sister, on the contrary, has had a feeling of discouragement and fear from the first, and even on the day when he left Mentor, she says her mind was that she could not drive away. As Gen. Garfield went about his farm giving things a farewell look she felt a presentiment that it was a long good-bye. During the day she was constantly busying herself about the house. Mrs. Larabee besought her not to do any work. "Mother," she said, "you will only worry yourself." "Oh, no," replied the old lady, "if I am active I shall sleep better." Her exhaustion, occasioned by the lack of rest two nights previous, induced sleep, which the members of the family say exceeded in length any previous sleep of the old lady. At 5 o'clock on Tuesday morning the village bell tolled. At 6 o'clock came the private telegram:

ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Eliza Garfield: "James died this evening at 10:35, calmly breathing his life away. D. M. SWAIM."

Mrs. Larabee's first thought was not to awaken Mrs. Garfield. The latter was sleeping calmly, and so they did not awaken her till 9 A. M. The old lady then awoke, having slept since 11 P. M.

BREAKING THE SAD NEWS.

At that hour Mrs. Larabee passed her door with a heavy heart, found her up and dressed and reading her bible, and it was thought best not to break the news until Mrs. Garfield had eaten her breakfast. Oddly enough, the old lady did not insist upon hearing the news until she had finished eating. Then taking the fatal telegram from the shelf she was about to read it, but Miss Ellen took it from her trembling hands. "Grandma," she said, "would you be surprised to get bad news this morning?" "Why I don't know," said Mrs. Garfield. "Well, I shouldn't," said Mrs. Larabee; "I have been fearing and expecting it all the morning." "Grandma," said Ellen, "there is bad news." "Is he dead?" asked the old lady tremulously. "He is." The quick tears started instantly to her eyes. There was no violent paroxysm of grief. No expression of the face told of the anguish within. "Is it true?" she asked with quivering lips. "The Lord help me, for if he is dead, what shall I do?" She was rendered weak and a little nervous by the announcement; was obliged once or twice to repair to her room, within the solitude of which she might begin to comprehend the awful truth. But she was not contented there and soon returned.

About 6:30 o'clock Mrs. Garfield was found sitting in the rocking chair waiting for the news. The morning papers she read with eagerness. "It cannot be that Jamie is dead," she murmured. "I cannot understand it. I have no further wish to live; and I cannot live if this is so." Although her general health is good at present, many fear her words are prophetic. Mrs. Larabee does not hope otherwise herself. But feeling keenly, as she does, her great affliction, she never once hinted at a lack of faith in the Supreme One, that all is not intended for the best. "It is Providence," she said. "I can truly believe that God knows best, and I must not murmur."

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

The barge Atlas took from The Dalles to the Cascades 900 tons of wheat Saturday morning. This is the largest single load of wheat that ever left that dock.

A little son of G. T. Wickham, residing about 12 miles south of The Dalles, on what is termed Dutch Flat, was badly burned last Monday morning by the explosion of a can of blasting powder. His right hand and arm, face, breast and abdomen were terribly lacerated from the effects of the powder. The child's recovery is regarded as extremely doubtful.

Western Oregon.

James Smith, long a resident of Oregon City died at his home near Abernethy bridge on the 23d inst., aged 75 years.

L. L. Clark, of Highland, Clackamas county, has raised a large crop of wheat which averaged 37½ bushels per acre. J. S. Walton, of the same neighborhood, raised on his farm in one field 62 bushels of wheat per acre and 71 bushels of oats per acre.

Washington Territory.

A number of new wharves have recently been built at Port Discovery, one of them a hundred feet in length to furnish additional room on which to pile lumber.

There is a large stave and heading factory at Puyallup, giving employment to many men and affording market for timber, of which there is a large supply, which with the coal field at the head of the valley constitutes a part of the undeveloped resources of the region.

The Blakely company will put in immediately an electric Brush light in the mills. There will perhaps be three or four lights. F. I. Ray came up from San Francisco by the last steamer to set up and place in operation the light. It will be the first light of this kind set up and operated in Washington territory. It is probable that the light will be introduced into Seattle before long.

Idaho.

The first snow of the season fell at Silver City last week.

Henry McDonald, the murderer of George Meyers, was resentenced by Judge Prickett at Boise City last week to be hanged on Friday Oct. 14, 1881, between the hours of 11 M. and 3 P. M. As his case has now been before the highest tribunal, little else than a miracle will save him from paying the penalty of his horrible crime on the gallows at the time appointed.

STUDIES OF HUMAN NATURE.

Three Dog Day Stories by the Burlington "Hawk-eye" Man.

[Burlington Hawk-Eye, Aug. 18.]

The teacher arose immediately after and called the school to order. There was a look of pain on his gentle face, and he seemed to be feeling for an apple in his coat tail pockets, but he was not. He was feeling for something, but it was not an apple, and it was not in his pocket. He glanced around the school, and every face was either oblivious or mischievous, except Walter Crane's. Walter Crane's face, bent over his Latin grammar, had such a profoundly studious expression, it was so sublimely free from guile, it was so angelically innocent, the teacher called him to the big desk and as Walter's wondering eyebrows arched themselves into silent but expressive interrogation points, the teacher handled a long switch and said: "Yes, Walter, yes; it was very neatly done, and now if you will just stand out here for one minute I will show you just about where that pin caught me."

And he showed him not once, but many times, to the great disgust of studious Walter Crane, and the quite delight of all the rest of the school and more especially big Sammy Johnson. Did Walter Crane really put the pin in the teacher's chair, children? Ah, no, indeed and truly he didn't know anything about it. It was big Sammy Johnson, who grinned and rubbed his hands every time Walter "hollered," who did it. Thus we see that sometimes in the study of physiognomy the wisest teacher will, as Herodotus observes, "bite off more than he can chew."

A fond mother leaned from a vine-embowered window up on North Fifth street the other evening, and in tones as soft as a gentle mother's love could make them, called to her beautiful boy, "Clarence! Clarence Plantagenet Jones! Wandering little honey bee, mother hears your merry prattle in among the flowers, come to your tea, my honey bird." And just then the mellow hum of the little honey bird twittered out in the gloaming, "Dog gone the dog gone thunder! I was tryin' to make a big black ant fight a gray spider in a bottle an' you hollered and made me mash a big green worm in my fingers. Dog gone it all!" And the mother, hiding her smiles behind a well dissembled frown, came into the garden and said, "Oh, you nasty little pig, I'll flake the hide off you with a mop-stick if I ever catch you in the garden again. Wash your filthy paws now, and come along to your supper if you want any." This, children, strongly illustrates the difference between poetry and blank verse.

Old Mr. Bleezerdorfer ascended South Hill at a late hour the other night, and, wearied with his unceasing efforts to keep on one side of the street at a time, missed the front door when he got into his own yard, sailed around into the back yard, and while making a straight course for the stable ran athwart the clothes-line, which caught him under the ear and chin, rasped his neck raw, lifted him up and cast him backward on the ash-heap. "Merciful—merciful!" shouted the old man, "hope to die if I aint found an—abnozzer comet!" But it was only a lone star, and it was loaded clear to the neck and three fingers over.

PARAGRAPHIC DETAIL.

The land about the Emerson hotel used to be worth $2 an acre, and now it sells for $30,000 a lot.

Senator Ben Hill has undergone a second operation upon his tongue for the removal of a fungoid growth.

Stanley Matthews, the new justice of the United States supreme court, is building a $26,000 house in Washington.

The Graphic gently indicates that Tilden would be quite willing to live in the white house and take all the chances of malaria.

The volume of Shakspeareana is to be enriched, or at all events enlarged, by a work on "Natural History in Shakspeare's Time."

An Indiana woman is the proud owner of a washboard over one hundred years old. Washboards and bibles never wear out in Indiana.

The Baltimore Sun tells of a young lady of that city who gave $100,000 for a husband. Us men come high, but the girls have got to have us.

A company with a capital of 80,000,000 francs has been formed in Paris for lending money on all kinds of property in Canada at 5 per cent. interest.

Dr. Tanner rises up in a western Pennsylvania town to deny the report that he recently died in Europe. But he is such a great liar, who knows?

The London Times evidently does not appreciate American genius when it says William Penn's remains cannot be removed to America because it is not known where his remains are. This is no obstacle to a Yankee.

It begins to look as though the Americans are about to purchase the finest estates in Europe. If Ireland is for sale under the land bill the American syndicate will purchase the island, and go into the potato business.

Joaquin Miller is said to be keeping a boarding house at Saratoga Springs. It must seem queer to him, when the end of the week comes round, not to be obliged to tie his clothes together and quietly dust out to escape the board bill.

Said Senator Bayard to Judge Jere Black lately: "Why, Black, how young you look! You are not as gray as I am, and you must be twenty years older." "Humph!" said the Judge. "Good reason! Your hair comes by descent and I got mine by purchase."

The Pullman Palace Car Company report a surplus of $981,000 on its business for the year. An extra dividend of 1½ per cent. from the earnings of the Detroit shops was declared. It was resolved to issue to shareholders $2,800,000 in new stock, at par, the proceeds to be used in the erection of 750 more dwellings and other improvements at Pullman.

THURSDAY EVENING, Sept. 29.

During the early part of the week past, nothing was done in mercantile circles, on account of memorial services in honor of the dead president. Since Wednesday business generally has been fairly active in all lines.

Wheat remains steady at following quotations: $1 60 per cental for valley; 57½ cents per bushel for Eastern Washington at shipping points on river or railroad, sacks not included. The volume of transactions during the week has been limited to purchases for vessels already chartered, and due before Jan 1, 1882. Very little, if any, has been bought for speculation. Receipts are greatly in excess of shipments, and docks are filling up rapidly. Vessels arriving here have quick dispatch, but at present rate of receipts—and there are no indications that they will be smaller for several weeks to come—no storage room will be had here by Nov. 1st.

Charters are firm as ever. The last engagements, 92s 6d, for iron, and 100s for wooden vessels, United Kingdom, are nominal rates for spot charters, but there is not a disengaged ship in port. December arrivals are firmly held at 87s 6d for U. K.

The Mark Lane Express of the 26th instant, whose reports are specially telegraphed to THE OREGONIAN, reviewing the English wheat market says: There were violent storms in Scotland and north England early this week, causing a destructive flood north of the Tweed. The harvest south of the Humber is concluded. In Scotland it is only half over, a portion of the grain being still unripe. As the supply of native wheat increases complaints of its condition are louder. On account of its wretched condition a large proportion is useless to millers, who now depend almost entirely upon foreign. There are a few dozen samples of the former. The conditioned parcels continue to decline. Of foreign, two-thirds of the supply was American, and all descriptions were firmer Friday than they had been for a week, notwithstanding the liberal supply and increased shipments from America. The rise is probably due to a sharp advance in American. In the Liverpool market there was a similar advance in off coast cargoes. A large business was done Friday at hardening rates. American red winter reached 55s. California 55s 6d.

Of flour the supply was large, but stocks are low and prices close rather firmer. Foreign is in restricted supply, closing firm. Two-thirds of the week's arrivals was American. Barley samples show that the crop is greatly damaged. Grinding samples sell slowly in favor of myrts. Foreign is dull. Oats are very scarce and at full rates. Foreign is in large supply and values are higher, especially in Russian. There is no American Maize off coast. The supply is small and prices have risen 6d since Monday. Sales of English wheat during the week were 69,000 quarters at 48s 5d per quarter, against 22,183 quarters at 59s 5d per quarter during the corresponding week of last year.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure-all;" it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches of phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.
